Quality of Sound Disclaimer:

The Leary's lectures were privately recorded in a nonprofessional venue. Neither Dr. Leary nor the hosting parties took particular pains to produce a studio quality sound record. This is a real time, warts and all, sound recording of a very valuable historical event. There are occasional feedback artifacts and dead time intervals. Every effort has been made to include audience contribution but some voices are indistinct. A complete written transcript is provided for those who would find this useful in understanding the intent and tone of the speakers' contributions.

Import Duties and other taxes:

Purchasers take full responsibility for payment of all taxes and duties which may be imposed by their country upon the shipment of these products.

Copyright Information:

The recordings of the Leary lectures are public domain materials. They are being made available for their historic, academic, and social value. The presentation, the graphics, the editorial comment, the track selections and commentaries are the sole property of Ethos Archival Reproductions.
